TOOK DRUGS THAT KILLED HER

East Side Prize-Fight.

"Mike" Reddy, of do New Chambers street and "Jack" McBride, of 324 Delancey street with enough other citizens to make up an even half hundred, were arraigned in Essex larket Court this morning, charged with be ing principals and witnesses in a prize fight ich Capt, Doherty, of the Delancey street station, called a "draw" last night, much to the disgust of the spectators.

For a month the "mill" has been talked out in the saloons of the Fourth Ward. The stakes were said to be $20 a side and the etting was about even.

Reddy and McBride are each forty-four rears old, not too fat, but inclined to be puffy. They trained themselves, confining their beverages to mixed ale and making t pedestrian trip across the Brooklyn Bridge every day or two. They might have been "harder" when they entered the ring, but ere " fit " enough for the sports who gave Seventeen districts can almost always be counted be mooratic. Three are doubtful.

The remainder are almost surely Republican. At present, in the House of Representatives, there are 23 bemocratic members from this state and 11 Republicans.

The Democratic majorities in recent elections in this State would justify a greater number of surely Democratic districts than are given in the bill."

HOWELLS'S HOUSE-HUNTING.

The Novelista's Experiences with Houses in New York.

One of the best descriptions of house-hunting experiences ever written appears in "A Hazard of New Fortunes," written by W. D. Howells. Here you have all the petty annoyances of finding a house in New York, told as only Howells can tell them, from the selection of the more promising announcements in the morning papers to the rushing hither and thither, from street to street, from house to house, to find just what is wanted in the way of size, price and location.

One of the difficulties which Howells dwells upon is the first selection of a list of houses by hunting over the morning papers, clipping the attractive advertisements and pinning them to a long strip of paper which he dubby the "vert-brate" and declares looks like a sea-serpent.

From early morn till dewy eve this "vertebrate" haunts Mr. and Mrs. March. They consult it by day and dream of it by night. One by one the houses are taken in turn, and one by one they are unsatisfactory by reason of price, size, &c.

It is a matter of regret that Mr. Howells's characters could not have experienced the benefit of the latest ingenious device to aid the seeker for homes in New York City or sistart Secretary Spaulding by Collector vicinity. Had Mrs. March had access to Two Wom p's Real-Estate Index as she went to her breakfast on those spring mornings, one The Mannattan was set apart for Mrs. Foster snip of the scissors would have given her a

Philadelphia Refineries

INT ASSOCIATED PRESS. PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—The general among business men in this city .nat the American Sugar Refining Company, commonly known as the Sugar Trust, is making an extraordinary effort to secure possession of the three independent sugar refineries in this city, with good chances for success. A well-informed gentleman says positively that in at least one instance the deal has been practically concluded. The three great Philadelphia sugar refineries-Spreckels, Knights and the Franklinhave been thorns in the side of the American Sugar Refining Company for years. This corporation, whose capital prior to January of this year was $50,000,000, increased the capitalization to $75,000,000, and, with this addition to its money power, has redoubled its efforts to bring within its control all outstanding refineries. There were, it is understood, 3,000 individual holders of the trust stock before the increase in capitalization. The certificates paid 7 per cent interest on preferred and 8 per cent, on common stock. A profit of three-eighths of a cent, per pound on sugar means $15,000,000 a year to the Sugar Trust.

Continuing his remarks, the refiner who gave the information regarding the Sugar "The planters have reaped the great reward which the removal of the tariff on sugar has brought. The refiners have not. The public would not suffer by the combination, and the refiners would make a fair profit, which they do not at present. There are more sugar houses now than are required to supply the demand." quired to supply the demand."

The same gentleman who vouchsafed the information regarding the consolidation was reasonably sure that the spreakels interests were included in the deal. The Trust and Spreakels are on very good terms in San Francisco, he said, and quite recently its representatives were investigating the spreakels refinery in this city.
